Hörmann boosts distribution efficiency

New North Carolina warehouse now in operation

Montgomery IL, March 20, 2009. International door manufacturer Hörmann has begun operations at a new distribution center in Greensboro, North Carolina. Contact Info. - Phone: (877) 859-3667 / Address: 4183 Eagle Hill Drive, Suite 105, High Point, NC 27265.

By slashing delivery times in Virginia and the Carolinas, the new distribution center substantially boosts Hörmann's ability to serve dealers and customers quickly in this growing region. It also reduces fuel use in deliveries, something that is getting increasing attention.

As a global company, Hörmann has long addressed fuel efficiency in all its operations, from manufacturing to delivery. Ongoing investment in higher efficiency machinery minimizes Hörmann's carbon footprint in manufacturing. Facilities around the world, including three in the US, keep manufacturing close to markets to reduce fuel consumption. Insulated warehouses with high-speed doors reduce heating and cooling energy use.

According to Larry Campbell, Hörmann LLC's Vice President of Sales & Marketing, "The new Greensboro distribution center reduces response times for our dealers in this market, by making our logistics more efficient. The Carolinas are a fast-growing region, so this is going to be a key market for us. At the same time, it also reduces our environmental impact."

Hörmann LLC manufactures a full range of residential and commercial garage doors. The company is based in Montgomery, IL and has manufacturing facilities in Illinois, Pennsylvania and Tennessee. For more information on Hörmann products, please visit www.hormann.us.
